DAYTON, Ohio, June 22, 1967 --- Three members of the University of Dayton's theology department have been granted a leave of absence to continue their studies for doctoral degrees.

Professor Joseph Brown is going to Temple University in Philadelphia for a two-year study period. Professors Ralph Cardillo and Randolph Lumpp will further their doctoral studies at the University of Ottawa in Ottawa, Canada.

Professor Brown will concentrate on American Religious Thought, which covers all religions, and Liturgy. He will study on Temple's Ambler, Pennsylvania, campus. Cardillo's area of study will be Christian Marriage while Lumpp's doctoral pursuits will be in the Sacraments and Scripture.

All three men have received either government or university grants to pursue their doctoral studies.
